

All my experience in Israel is amazing. I think will never forget Israel because my heart is pumping for it. I really enjoyed to be part of the Trumpet team and to go to the streets that is like my house. I love the streets and of course talking to people who are there. I will never forget the outreaches in the army bases and how we got in there, was very funny to see the reaction of the soldiers I think it's amazing how easily they open their hearts and enjoy being with us.

My heart is moved for this nation and this people I saw how the youth here is in darkness as the rest of the world and I'm happy that we did something about it.

Sometimes it was hard for me when we had some troubles and opposition from religious, really religious people who strongly rejected us, calling us Missionaries and 1001 bad words. This is a bit of discouragement but as the Word of God says: I "take the good and leave the bad"

It was so nice how most of the people offered us applause, smiled to us and supported us, these people are... I don't have words to explain it, just wonderful!

In these moments of troubles I understood how Yeshua did suffer from the rejection and accusation of the people and this encouraged me to don't give up wherever I will be, I won't stop to preach the Gospel. I know I didn't suffer anything as in the past time where the disciples and our Lord die on the cross, by stones, etc.

To be in this campaign, opened my eyes to this people and now I know how to speak to them and be wise in the way how to present the Gospel. I learnt not to put too much attention in the little things as Jacob said in the last Shabbat quite clear - that it is not so important if the things are not going how we want them and that we should not worry in the little things.

From all these people I learnt a lot. I understood that the Lord and me still have to work and take all the bad things out of my heart. I enjoyed to be part of this multi-cultural team, the outreaches, the free-time and to see Israel and learn from each other. With all my desire, I want to come back and hopefully if it's His will, I'll be back!

I love you people, thank you for your help, patience, hard work, prayer and love.
You have a special part of my heart!

From a lover of Zion to the lovers of Yeshua!
